

Turner Case Post 7.17.75

TAMPA, Fla.—U.S. District Court Judge William T. Hodges dismissed 14 counts of conspiracy against Orlando promoter Glenn Turner, defense lawyer F. Lee Bailey and four others.

Hodges granted a motion filed by the government last week asking that 14 of the 28 counts against the defendants in a mail fraud case be dropped to avoid a lengthy court case next month.

Hodges also dismissed portions of two other counts that alleged false promises of training and advertising to people who purchased distributorships in two companies then owned by Turner—Koscot Interplanetary and Dare To Be Great.
